SEPTEMBER AID FOR SPRING

Fall and winter will have to pass before we see another spring, but one event this coming spring will be tempered by a new law that goes into effect in Virginia September 1.

"Next spring we should be in an even better position to control this problem," says Arthur T. Hart, supervisor of the paint law for VDAC. "Beginning September 1 this year, as a result of an amendment to our state's paint law by the 1972 General Assembly, all spray paint contractors or people spraying paint for hire must be registered by our department. In order to gain registration they will have to post a $5,000 bond. Painters who have been established for at least one year and those who have a permanent address will not have to have this license.

"One of the biggest problems with the itinerant painter is the problem of locating him if there is a complaint about his work," continued Hart. "If he can't be located there is no remedy for the injured person. Under the new paint law amendment, once the painter is registered and if he does damage to a person's property, the injured party can gain a remedy through this bond. In order words, if he charged $500, the consumer could get his money back from the bond that is held by the department.

Hart offered the following advice: "In dealing with people who knock at the door and offer you a paint job. If you are unfamiliar with the painter and he cannot produce a license, don't deal with him. All of the registered painters will be on file in Richmond and if there is any question contact your local better business bureau or let us know in the paint law section. If you can give us the name and address of the painter it can be checked out. This will help us in locating the Gypsters or identifying the painters who can give you the quality job for which you pay!"
